Mental Health and Hearing Loss

Illinois Department of Human Services, Division of Mental Health (IDHS/DMH) requires their funded community agencies to provide reasonable accommodations to consumers who are Deaf, Hard of Hearing, DeafBlind, and Late-Deafened; this includes communication accessibility.

Reasonable accommodations can include an ASL and/or deaf interpreters; tactile signing; printed materials in large print; FM system or personal amplifier; Communication Access RealTime Translation (CART); etc.

Several community health centers are certified to provide mental health services to people with hearing loss.

Chicago Read Mental Health Center, one of the Department's state psychiatric hospitals, is fully accessible to serving persons who are Deaf or Hard of Hearing.
