Addendum A: Expectations for Pre-admission Screening of Persons Referred to Inpatient Psychiatric Services

Section I: Purpose

The intent of the document is to clarify how DHS/DMH resources can be used in a coordinated way to minimize barriers between and among inpatient, outpatient, and emergency service providers in the local community. Studies that looked at continuity of care and consumer outcomes conclude that there is a strong relationship between well-coordinated elements of consumer care and positive outcomes. Data further suggests that consumers and providers report a greater job satisfaction when such systems are in place.

Continuity of care strategic planning will include, but not be limited to, the following:

Informational Continuity: Changes or trends in written documents (e.g., Consumer and Family Handbook), or verbal information about the local service system.

Relational Continuity: Changes to an ongoing service relationship between the consumer and provider.

Management Continuity: Changes to parts of the system, such as adding an evidence-based practice, closing a system gap to avoid fragmentation of care, etc.

Section IV: The Continuity of Care Strategic Planning Process

The Region Office will be responsible for convening meetings, recording strategic plan proceedings, and publishing a plan document the group can reference throughout the year. Elements of the process are as follows:

- Fashion an appropriate resolution;
- Modify the COC Strategic Plan document to reflect the resolution; and,
- Notify all COC Stakeholders of the modification.

Addendum A: Expectations for Pre-admission Screening of Persons Referred for Inpatient Psychiatric Services

Any DHS/DMH provider that conducts pre-admission screening services is asked to conform to the following best practice:

1. When performing a pre-screening, the pre-screener will:

- Assess the individual’s situation, and the community’s resources, to determine whether options exist to inpatient hospitalization;
- When options to inpatient hospitalization are determined to be absent, the pre-screener will assess whether there are options to state hospital referral (for example: hospitalization in a private hospital funded by the individual’s existing

- insurance, hospitalization funded by a retroactive Medicaid application; hospitalization in a private hospital using DSH dollars for charity care); and,
- Fully document the results of the evaluation.

2. When the result of the pre-screening is a determination that a referral for inpatient hospitalization is necessary, the pre-screener will:

If a pre-admission screening is conducted at a community site other than a hospital emergency room, coordinate the transportation of the individual to the nearest hospital emergency room and deliver a copy of the pre-screening assessment to the emergency room staff.

If the pre-admission screening is conducted on a community hospital inpatient unit for referral to an SOH, the pre-screening will be included in the packet of required documents to facilitate the referral.

3. When the result of the pre-screening is a determination that a referral for inpatient hospitalization is not necessary, the pre-screener will:

- Provide the individual with a copy of the IDHS/DMH Consumer and Family Handbook;
- Provide the individual with a written summary of recommended alternative services, including peer support;
- Offer to make an appointment for any recommended alternative services the individual wishes to access; and,
- If an appointment is made, provide the individual with appointment information, including the date and time of appointment(s), the provider name, address, and general phone number, as well as any specific information that will enhance linkage, such as the name, title, and phone number of specific contact staff at the provider site.
- If an appointment is not made, advise the individual of options for pursuing services on their own (e.g., provider local resource information, and/or direct them to the Consumer and Family Care Line @ 866-359-7953).
